President's Letter

Well, here we are sort of in the middle of summer, and I hope it has been a good summer for everyone. I, personally, don't like the super hot weather and I think most of us don't like it either. The, finally arrived, monsoon rains were a welcome respite, and good for the green growing things.

We had a long- planned trip to Montana. One of Rachel's sisters came from California to travel with us. We had several minor mishaps the morning we were to leave which delayed our departure several hours. Within a short distance I noticed a slight vibration from under the RV. Optimist that I am, I continued on our way. As our speed increased to 30, 40, 50 MPH the noise increased commensurately and became a loud droning inside the whole coach. From inside we couldn't tell where it was coming from. Since it was speed dependent, my best guess was that the sound was from somewhere in the driveline, either a U-joint or the support bearing in the middle of the driveshaft. Our planned multi-thousand mile trip got as far as a little way up Oak Creek Canyon, when I admitted that we could not take our journey and, disappointedly, returned to home. After getting home, I climbed under the RV and checked the driveline for looseness that would cause the vibration. Nothing. I banged on all the parts and pieces under the RV to look for something loose. Nothing. I took it for a test drive for one last chance to determine the cause of the noise. Dead-quiet Mercedes Benz quality! Not a sound. When I got out of the RV I noticed a barely audible "clink" as I stepped on the automatic step. I grabbed it by hand, and yes, it would move about 1/16". That's what the noise was. For the first time, it had not retracted fully and was vibrating. Pretty good mechanic that I am, I had not been able to figure it out. Regardless, after all of the problems of that morning, and dreading the heat in which we would be traveling, we took it as an omen and did not take our trip to Montana. The following week, however, we did take a trip to Colorado to cool off.

After almost a year and a half we are finally going to have a General Meeting on Tuesday, August 10th, at 7:00 PM at the Library. I hope to see many of you there. Because of the resurgence of Covid concerns, masks will be strongly recommended.
